

How to optimize your Production Footprint?

Have you ever wondered about the complexities involved in a corporate relocation or expansion project for your production facilities?

Relocating, centralizing or expanding production activities not only profoundly change corporate supply chains, they often require significant investments. Understanding changing business drivers and translating them into an optimized production footprint is our day to day practice. What differentiates us is our integrated approach, visualized by nine different fields of expertise.

Addressing the following key issues:

1. How to tap into new markets and simultaneously reduce your production costs?
2. How to align or synchronize existing supply chain networks with new production locations?
3. How to optimize your incentive potential i.e. where to be awarded subsidy grants by establishing new production facilities?
4. How to deal with favorable and less favorable tax regimes?
5. How to align your VAT/customs manuals with modified flow of goods crossing borders?
